

The LEAGUE ...

Working for Postmasters!

In the ever changing world of the Postal Service, it is more important than ever that Postmasters belong to an organization that recognizes the effect that those changes have on their careers and their futures. It is even more important now to be a part of an organization that supports Postmasters and understands their needs. The National League of Postmasters is that organization! We have been in existence for more than 100 years and understand the problems that Postmasters face each day.
